

The GEODAYS are three days of B2B meetings, conferences and workshops on the subsurface sectors at the service of ecological and energetic transition.

The event:

This year, the digital version of the GEODAYS will take place on June 22, 23 and 24. More than 500 participants will be connected from all around the world, to discuss innovative projects. This is a unique opportunity to develop your company's structure, to meet future partners and to start new projects. This year, Quebec is put in the spotlight to pave the way for a long-term partnership between AVENIA and its members, in order to work together towards sustainable development goals.

If you are interested in participating in the GEODAYS, come visit and sign in on our website! (<https://www.geodays-event.com/en>)

The program includes:

- Conferences: Due to the international appeal of the GEODAYS, the event is organized around conferences and workshops dealing with export business and innovation.
- Open Innovation: It facilitates contacts between innovators and subsurface actors: a great opportunity to present your innovative project by meeting high-profile leaders in confidential 30-minute sessions, on June 22 and June 24.
- B2B meetings: These professional tailor-made meetings are organized by an appointment process, which enables you to meet new potential partners easily and rapidly, who may help develop your project in France or abroad. Up to 24 meetings scheduled in order to forge bonds.
- Speed speeches: You have the possibility to pitch on your concept, your project, products or innovative services for 3 minutes, during a dedicated time of the event.

Feel free to share the information. We count on you to raise awareness among your network and to help us make this event a success!
